

ONLINE PLACES FOR ORDERING QUALITY BUSINESS CARDS

Any recommendations for ordering some quality business cards online please other than VistaPrint? Thanks thanks.

www.Printdirectforless.com is great, but they don't offer templates: you upload your own artwork. It works well for me because the cards for all three of my businesses are designed by a graphic designer. Can't beat the price: last time I ordered, it was $14 for 1,000 double-sided, full-color cards (plus shipping).

Lisa Solomon, New York

Looks like it went up to $25.

Peter

*

Peter W. Shafran, New York

Print place is cool.

Hieu Vu, California

Support your local printer, pay a bit more if you have to for a quality product. A good card is your first impression with a potential client.

Jim Moriarty, Iowa

I actually really like my cards and I ordered from Staples. They were nicer and actually ended up costing less than vistaprint.

Allen M. Ayers, Texas

123Print

Best printed cards so far.

Jeena R. Belil, New York

DangCheapPrinting.com's prices are ridiculously cheap, I paid close to $25 bucks for 5,000 cards with color on both sides (these are the modern type business cards, very flashy), and customer service is excellent. The guy who runs it, I believe his name is Jeff made good on my first order that came defective because of a computer glitch, so very happy with him. Everything is completely customizable, you'll find true value if you have your own graphics and designs. Once you upload your designs, they remain in your account for future purchases.

I haven't had a chance yet, but this is definitely the printer I will use for full color promotional pieces. Also the ground shipping is very quick, less than a week.

Michael A. Huerta, New York

My favorite is <http://www.designyourowncard.com/> best price for raised ink I could find. Nice selection of papers, limited fonts though. I uploaded a QR code and that was also printed in raised ink.

Steve

--

Steven O'Donnell, Pennsylvania

overnightprints.com

Amy

--

Amy E. Mitchell, Texas

I L O V E Printplace. great prices, I design them myself in photoshop, and get a ton for cheap. VERY high quality.

Eric Ridley, California

I use Iprint.com for lots of things. Their prices are good and they often have good sales.

Roger Traversa, Pennsylvania

dangcheapprinting.com

Pamela the Paralegal

*Pamela J. Starr

What Jim says.

Leaving aside the argument that you should shop local to support local businesses because it's the right thing to do, you're in business. Locally. If you purchase something from the internet, the internet merchant is NEVER going to send you business. It just isn't going to happen. Local merchant; when you go in to pick up business cards, chat them up. They may need legal work; even if they don't, they'll know you and if someone mentions something to them about needing legal work, they may very well say, go see so and so.

It's called networking. People spend all this time and effort to try to 'network' but will ignore the very basic stuff, meaning networking within your community. What's the internet going to save you on business cards? $20 $50? Versus having local vendor who may be your client or send someone your way.

I like the internet as much as the next guy, but internet retailers are never going to send me business.

Ronald Jones, Florida
